Standards of Practice for Guardians

These 25 nationally recognized standards, adopted by NGA in 2000 and recently revised, include: Conflict of Interest; Decision Making; Medical and Financial Decision-Making, the Guardian's Relationship to the Court and to the Person, Least-Restrictive Alternatives and more. Each standard is explained in detail and provides guidance to guardians in the private and public sectors.

A Standards of Practice checklist is also available for free download.

Standards for Agencies and Programs Providing Guardianship Services

NGA's purpose in this document is to provide guidance for programs striving to provide quality guardianship services. There is great diversity among agency models, and the standards are written broadly, so that the principles may be applied to any agency or program, regardless of its size or structure. While aspirational, the standards convey good business practices that agencies and states should consider adopting into policy or law.

Ethical Principles

NGA's newest publication is a listing of the newly-adopted Ethical Principles, a concise set of principles which reflect the more detailed Standards of Practice. The Ethical Principles cards are intended to be used by judges and court personnel, in order to encourage the use of these principles in instructions to guardians. This document is available for free download or as a printed 3X5 card. NGA will send limited complimentary copies of the cards. For larger quantities, NGA will send a printer-ready PDF.
